(SF, 5 May 2021) The Artistic Director of the Salzburg Whitsun Festival, Cecilia Bartoli, has decided to make a virtue of the pandemic's necessities: because Sir John Eliot Gardiner had to cancel the scheduled concert Dixit Dominus due to quarantine restrictions, Cecilia Bartoli will revive the programme of arias that met with such thunderous applause in the summer of 2020, performing on Whitsunday, 23 May at 11 am at the Haus für Mozart.

“What passion cannot music raise”, this aria from Handel's Ode for St. Cecilia's Day also provides the title of the entire programme – pointing not only to the power of music, but also to the theme chosen by Cecilia Bartoli for the 2021 Whitsun Festival: after all, Handel's ode was written in homage to Saint Cecily of Rome, the patron saint of (sacred) music.

During the past summer, Cecilia Bartoli and the Musiciens du Prince-Monaco under the baton of Gianluca Capuano already offered a glimpse of this year's staged Whitsun production, performing Piacere's aria “Lascia la spina, cogli la rosa” from the oratorio Il trionfo del Tempo e del Disinganno. Their concert, part of the series “Canto lirico”, enchanted audiences and reviewers alike.

“That was a touching moment, the point when the audience had truly forgotten the facemasks and the virus. It was a sacred moment. We were there together, we enjoyed making music together, listening to music together, crying and smiling together,” thus Cecilia Bartoli described her emotion on the Festival evening which first allowed her to return to the stage for live performances after months of silence.

In the film series “Roma Amor”, the Salzburg Whitsun Festival is pleased to present the following programme:

Rome's rich diversity has inspired not only poets, composers and painters but also film-makers – and has provided the vibrant setting for many major movie productions. DAS KINO has curated a series of cinematic masterpieces in which the diverse nuances and moods of the city can be traced. With his Roma, città aperta for example, Roberto Rossellini created a key work of Neorealism in 1945. In 1960 Federico Fellini drew a picture of “a society of excess losing itself in superficial amusement” in La dolce vita, while just one year later in Accattone, his first film as director, Pier Paolo Pasolini depicted “the courage, pain and innocence of the impoverished” (Harry Tomicek) in a run-down suburb of Rome. In 1972 Fellini created a very personal portrait of the city with Fellini's Roma, which blends a striking abundance of memories, experiences and imaginings. And Paolo Sorrentino's modern classic La grande bellezza (2013) is an astonishing declaration of love to the Eternal City, captured with glorious cinematography.
